

I Characteristics

Honey Signature expertly blends natural beehives extracts with synthetics captives through a co-extraction by molecular distillation.

Honeycombs are collected from beehives directly from a community of fifty French beekeepers, before or after the honey harvest season.

Firmenich only sources untreated honeycombs, with no naphthalene.

The extraction is performed in our Tourettes factory located in the South of France.

A small amount of honey always remains in these honeycombs, which contributes to a rich olfactive profile.

I Technology

SigNature is a unique technical solution developed from a harmonious synergy between Science, Nature and Creativity.

Showcasing Firmenich process expertise applied to high quality natural ingredients, Honey SigNature offers the symbiosis of all Firmenich savoir-faire.

The SigNature range of products behave like naturals. They help impart the natural feeling and evaporation profile to the formula.

Inspired by the original "natural and fresh" characteristics of the material, it brings in olfactory memory, a unique SigNature, rich, contemporary and cost effective.

I Reported Benefits

Called the "nectar of the gods" in Ancient Greece, honey is widely recognized not only for its health benefits, but also for its delicious sweetness.

The healthiest honey is one that comes straight from the honeycomb.

Honey can also be used as a facial moisturizer, mask and body scrub and in other skin care applications.

Honey SigNature has a flavor-like profile: typically yummy, with no animalic note.

Incredibly gourmand, it imparts a natural and contemporary touch to fine fragrance.

"Honey SigNature calls to mind a powerful, intense, rich, deep and sensual note. It gives a lot of body to fragrances."
